A message from our Pastor

January 30th marks the beginning of Catholic Schools Week 2022. This week is a time for us to recognize and celebrate the ways Catholic schools have served the mission of the Church and the good of society through the centuries.

It is a time to remember and pray for all those who have served our Catholic schools: principals and administrators, teachers and aides, facilities workers, and the multitudes of volunteers. We remember too, all the generous benefactors who have made our Catholic Schools possible.

Catholic Schools Week is also a time to pray for and to thank those who serve our St. Mary School of St. Paul VI Parish. We are grateful to have Mrs. Nolzco, our Principal, leading our school, along with Mrs. Garza our Assistant Principal. We are blessed with an outstanding faculty and staff to whom we owe a debt of gratitude. Our school is clean, warm, and safe, thanks to our Facilities Team. Thanks too, to the School Board members and the Family School Association who help keep us strong academically and fiscally.

The theme for this year is Catholic Schools: Faith. Excellence. Service. St. Mary School strives to be a vibrant community of faith within the parish community. The faculty endeavors to continue developing the faith life begun in students' homes through learning their faith, and celebrating that faith in Mass, the Sacraments, and service to the parish and the larger community.

Excellence in our academic programs is consistently directed at the development of the whole student: mind, body, and spirit. St. Mary School has been chosen by parents who have reviewed our record of fine educational quality and rich curriculum.

Service is an integral dimension of Catholic education. Service flows from our discipleship to Jesus who asked us to serve others. Students are encouraged to identify the gifts God has given them. They are led to use those gifts to make their homes, their parish, their school, their neighborhoods, and the world a better place.

Thanks to the parents who send their children to our school and who support our school and sometimes sacrifice a great deal to provide what is best for their children.

Catholic Schools, of course, are nothing without students. We are so proud of the 338 students who are being formed and educated in St. Mary School. Thank you, students, for your faith, your dedication to learning, and your use of your God-given talents to serve others and to make the world more like the Kingdom of God! We pray for you that, like all the Catholic students before you, you will grow in wisdom and age and grace.

Please come over to the Open House at our school on Sunday, January 30, from 9-12. Feel the joy and see some of the accomplishments of our students and learn what St. Mary School offers.

Fr. Tom May, Pastor

A message from our Associate Pastor

During the annual celebration of Catholic Schools Week in the United States, it is important to take the time to remember what makes Catholic schools “different”: an embrace of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, lived every day. There are many different types of Catholic educational settings, from pre-K to the university. Focusing on K-12 Catholic education, here are eight surprising facts and statistics about Catholic education during Catholic Schools Week. (All of these figures are courtesy of the USCCB’s Committee on Catholic Education, the University of Notre Dame’s Alliance for Catholic Education, and the Archdiocese of Hartford [Connecticut]’s Office of Education, Evangelization, and Catechesis.)

1. The Catholic Church runs the largest private educational system in the United States.
2. With 200,000 members, the National Catholic Educational Association is the world’s largest private professional educational organization.

3. Of the nearly 150,000 teachers in Catholic schools, only around 3% are clergy and religious brothers or sisters. This makes the laity comprising 97% of teachers in Catholic schools that much more crucial when it comes to supporting and promoting a Catholic school’s Gospel-centered mission and fostering its Catholic identity.

4. Catholic schools have a low teacher-to-student ratio of 1:13.
5. 99% of students in Catholic high schools will graduate, and 88% will attend four-year colleges or university.
6. Catholic schools save taxpayers over $20,000,000,000 (yes, billion) annually.
7. Graduates of Catholic high schools are more likely to vote in political elections upon turning eighteen.
8. 1 out of every 10 Catholic teens in the United States attends a Catholic high school.

Seeing all these wonderful facts about Catholic schools we can recognize how important Catholic schools are in the United States. It is a tradition that began in 1727 with the oldest continuous running school in America. Zelda Calwell of Aleteia tells us about this great school.

Ursuline Academy, in New Orleans, Louisiana, enjoys the distinction of being the oldest continuously operating Catholic high school in the United States. It’s also the country’s oldest school for girls.

According to an account of the history of the school in Country Roads Magazine, the school for girls came to be because the town of New Orleans needed a hospital to serve its French settlers.

In 1726, five years after New Orleans’ colonial administrator Jacques de la Chaise’s sought out “four good gray sisters to come and settle here and take care of the sick ...,” King Louis XV decreed that three Ursuline Nuns from Rouen should travel to New Orleans to establish a hospital for the poor.

The king also tasked the sisters with establishing something the town didn’t ask for: a school for girls, which was the particular mission of the order and its founder, St. Angela Merici, in Brescia, Italy.

Thus in 1727, 12 Ursuline nuns from France established the first boarding school in the state of Louisiana. At its start it served the daughters of wealthy families from Central and South American countries. As Anne Craven reports in Country Roads, in addition to serving their paying students, the school took in orphans and Native American and Black girls who came for catechism classes during the day.

The sisters had a most civilizing effect on the town of New Orleans, which when they arrived was known for its vices more than its virtues.

Sister Marie-Madeleine Hachard wrote of her adopted town:

“In the end, the devil has a great empire here, but this does not take away from us the hope of destroying him, with God’s love ... not only do debauchery, bad faith and all the other vices reign here more than in any other place, but they do so in abundance.”

Within a few years, New Orleans became known for its higher-than-average levels of literacy and property ownership, according to Craven.

In her book Masterless Mistresses, which Craven quotes, Tulane professor Emily Clark credits the Ursuline nuns with improving life for both the wealthy, and the poor, and for both Black and white girls. “By the end of the colonial era they had facilitated the creation of a large Afro-Catholic community and an integrated congregation,” she writes.

Over 200 years later the school continues to serve girls and young women from New Orleans. Located on 11.5 acres in Uptown New Orleans, Ursuline has a student body of 620 girls, from pre-kindergarten through high school. Following in the tradition of the founder of the Ursuline order, and the sisters who established the New Orleans school, the school strives to provide “a nurturing environment for the learning and development of the whole person.”

According to the school’s mission statement, Ursuline Academy continues to be “dedicated to the moral, spiritual, intellectual and social growth of each individual, and these values are validated by our educational approach.”

Meet the Staff

Hi, my name is Patricia Madai, and many may recognize my picture, as I am a cantor and choir member at St. Paul VI Parish. I'm also a former member of the Lira Singers, a Polish Classical and Folk Ensemble, having toured Poland twice and recorded with them. As one of the afternoon/evening receptionists at the Lyne Pastoral Centre, I work with wonderful staff from St. Hugh, Mater Christi and St. Mary where we do our best to answer any questions and concerns presented to us. As a longtime member of the Service Outreach Group, one of the many projects was Sunday suppers at Cooke's Manor & Bishop Goedert residence on the Hines VA Campus before Covid, which many of our parishioner's brought food and helped serve. Now Service Outreach provides the Catholic Charities Tuesday suppers where I will try my hand at preparing something that has 3 items or less in the recipe, organize the food pantry collection which goes to Catholic Charities in Cicero for distribution. I'm helping collect socks for the homeless which goes to Guardian Corp of America for homeless veterans. I am overwhelmed by the generosity, kindness and support of the St. Paul VI Parishioners. I always feel we have the best helpers in the world.
